

By David Chiu

Hi, my name is David and I swim. My goal to pursue leadership is to try my best and to help my swim mates when they have trouble for anything. I can also pursue leadership by caring for others when they need help or are hurt. How I strive for excellence is that I try my best in training and swim fast to beat my times in meets.

(Races) Even if I don't win in some events I can still try hard and congratulate my fellow swim mates when they are finished their events. One day I might be able to go to the Olympics and win some medals. Also I may strengthen my body. Competitive swimming is not only about competitive stuff but is also about commitment. So I can also strive for excellence by being committed swimming. Also by doing what the coach says and listening. I can also do this to pursue leadership. So this is my goal to pursue leadership and to strive for excellence.